BUSH THREATENS CANUCKISTAN!

CITES "COWS OF MAD DESTRUCTION"
ALBERTIAN FLEE RURAL AREAS FOR CITIES

Canuckistan is an Axis of Evil! SARS, Cows of Mad Destruction, and Cheap Lumber!"

George Bush Junior

Jean Chretien is heard saying, "Bwaahahaha! Bush is now a moron - our plan is working. He has obviously been infected with BSE from our Grade A Alberta beef! Now to invade and conquer America.... First, send a gift pack of Grade A Alberta all-beef hotdogs to the American Generals. Damn, I should send packs to all the Congressmen and Senators as well, but alas, as you know we've cut back on the defense budget, so lets just send them Air Canada tickets to Calgary - they can buy their own hot dogs - or better yet get stranded!" When the representative of Botswana questioned the tape and the obvious English fluency of the purported Chretien, Colon Powell responded, "Hey, he's just like all the French - err French-Canadians, he can speak English just fine...it's all an act ya know. Damn sneaky those French, eh.."

However, despite the obvious neurological malady of the American President, Albertians who are at ground zero of the expected invasion route are worried. Ned Ander-Thal, on vacation in Alberta from his home in British Columbia, says in an exclusive WHN interview that, "Albertians in the rural areas are fleeing for the cities. They've heard that the Americans have developed a special kind of neutron bomb that destroys the rural fauna but leaves the cities and oil reserves intact. Me, I'm going back home to White Rock cause I hear that the American President is stupid and thinks that British Columbia is part of the United Kingdom - you know, because we have princely mountains and whales and such... I've also heard that Prince Edwards Island is safe because George thinks thats where the King of England lives. God save the Queen..."

Blaine Washington
McDonalds Under Siege
By Canuckistan Army!

Blaine, WA (WHN) Staggering a two-horned attacked, the Calgary Stampede Division of the Albertian Army has cut through B.C. to lay siege to the Blaine, Washington USA McDonalds. In a 'stroke' of luck, WHN reporter Ned Ander-Thal (just back from his Alberta vacation) was at the Blaine McDonalds as the invasion force arrived. "Damn, they just stampeded in. Fortunately, there is a donut shop next door to MickyD's so all the cops came running out with their guns firing. They would have hollered too, but their mouths were full" The rapid response of the Americans has, at least for the moment, stopped the offensive Albertians, but the Blaine McDonalds remains under siege. WHN Reporter Ander-Thal reports that "burgers, hot dogs and other bovine based weapons of mass destruction are being thrown at us and some defenders are falling victim to these succulent dogs and burgers I mean, it IS Alberta beef...big, juicy, and oh sooooo good..."

President George Bush Junior mobilized the Military Offensive Operation (MOO) Force which has reinforced the Blaine Police Department in repelling the Cows of Mad Destruction. Staunch ally Britain has also sent in the Troops. Sir Lyon, spokesperson for the combined MOO forces, states that, "While the Cows of Mad Destruction have maintained a hoof-hold in America, we believe that we can depopulate them. We will shoot them on site [fresh ground? Ed], but we have given our troops strict orders to have no barbecues unless they can prove that the BBQ is using collateral damage--errr, you know, all American cows." President Bush Junior has issued a Presidential directive requiring all American cows to use the password "Mooooo" to identify themselves to the American Forces. Alberta Premier Ralph Klein states that this preemptive attack was necessary to force the US into submission and to prevent an attack by the US on Alberta itself. If this attack fails, there is fear that Ottawa may deploy the SARS (gasp!) weapon.
