Coincidence or Conspiracy! Did Chrétien Hide Saddam from American Justice

White Rock, BC (WIN) Security analysts worldwide have been shocked by the abrupt capture of Saddam Hussein. Confidential security reports over the last 9 months had suggested that Saddam was located in a highly secure location – perhaps even outside of Iraq – and thus unlikely to be captured. But with the surprising capture of Saddam, expert analysts have raised the very interesting questions of “How could Saddam have been found in that rat hole? What, or Who changed?”.

In a WIN exclusive, International Anti-Terrorist Expert Ned Ander-Thal has blown the lid off of a here-to-fore secret Canadian connection: Saddam was Jean Chrétien’s Houseguest! Mr. Ander-Thal’s undercover research conclusively documents (see photo) that then Prime Minister Chrétien smuggled Mr. Hussein into Mr. Chrétien home town of Shawinigan, Quebec (where he was protected by the FRENCH-Canadian tribal loyalties). Chrétien, acknowledged leader of the Axis of Naughty Naughty, later moved Saddam into the Prime Ministers own official residence in Ottawa to protect him from the agents of George Bush. By all accounts Chrétien and Saddam got along quite well playing pinoacle and telling George Bush jokes. However, things dramatically changed for Mr. Hussein with Mr. Chrétien’s abrupt departure from power – two months earlier than anticipated.

Chretien, “Let’s get you outta here before da American spies see you. You did bring de $750,000? You know I do have expenses and am retiring...”

Confidential reports indicate that new Prime Minister Paul Martin was shocked to discover, upon moving into the Official Residence in Ottawa, a cowering Saddam in the spare bedroom. While Mr. Martin’s first instinct as a rich capitalist was to keep Mr. Hussein as a undocumented and unpaid “houseboy”, fear that President Bush might actually one day come to Canada and visit the Prime Minister residence squashed that idea. Furthermore, the immaculately attired Martin was also appalled at the appearance of the former Iraqi dictator who sprouted both a very bushy (thus obviously insulting to the President) and unkempt beard and had not changed undershirts in weeks due to the marathon pinoacle sessions with Mr. Chrétien. Hence, it became necessary for Mr. Martin to secretly remove Saddam from Canada (Secrecy was crucial as it is quite clear that had Saddam sought polical refuge it would have been granted by Canadian courts).

To accomplish this transfer, Mr. Martin convinced Mr. Wallace McCain, a billionaire friend of the Prime Minister, to fly Saddam back to Iraq on Mr. McCain’s private jet (Spud I). However, because of Mr. Martin’s desire to bring ethics back to Ottawa it was necessary to get a ruling on this transfer. Surprisingly, the Canadian Ethics Office (CEO) approved of this single use of a private jet as Mr. Martin would not actually be accompanying “Mr. Hussein...errr, John Doe” on the frozen FRENCH fry king’s plane. Following ethics approval and under great secrecy, Mr. Hussein was transported on Spud I to Iraq on the night of Friday, December 12 - Mr. Martin’s swearing in date! Two Canadian RCMP officers accompanied Mr. Hussein to near Tikrit where they attempted to build an igloo to imprison Saddam until he could be captured by the US-led Coalition Forces. When attempts to build the igloo failed (“Damn, it IS December...who knew that ice could melt in December!”; for more details see, RCMP Secret Report on Operation Get Him The Hell Outta Ottawa) the RCMP agents resorted to building a rat trap in the ice softened soil which they modeled upon the Toronto Subway system. At this time it is unclear if the two individuals of interest captured along with Saddam are the RCMP agents who accompanied him to Iraq. US Military Officials would only reply with an “Eh!” when questioned.

"Damn it, why did Chrétien leave him at 24 Sussex... He should have given him a taxi and let him loose in Quebec City - I mean that's kinda like driving one in Bagdad."

Despite the careful coverup attempted by Prime Minister Martin, the CIA learned of the Canadian link (perhaps via the RCMP agents) and an angry Bush called Mr. Martin asking for the extradition and war-crime prosecution of former Prime Minister Chrétien. Unofficial reports indicate that Mr. Martin will (happily?) agree with President Bush's demands – and in fact has offered to throw in Ms. Sheila Copps as an accessory. Unnamed staff within the Prime Ministers office state that only one thing currently stands in the way of the successful handover and prosecution of Mr. Chrétien: "How to get the alleged war criminal Chrétien to Washington, D.C." Mr. Martin's office is perplexed by the complexity of making the travel arrangements since the use of friends or contributors corporate jets would not be ethical for transporting Mr. Chrétien, a government pensioner with political ties. When asked about using Air Canada by Stephen Harper, even Mr. Martin who has never flow Air Canada couldn't suppress a chuckle about the actual viability of Mr. Harper's obviously satirical suggestion. In a gesture of neighborly assistance, President Bush has offered to invade Ontario upto and including Ottawa to capture the war criminal. While appreciated, The PM's office has suggested a compromise and have offered to relocate Mr. Chrétien to Shawinigan, Quebec so that the territorial integrity of the sovereign nation of Canada would not be compromised by any American invasion. Indications within the US Defense Department suggest that this plan is acceptable as Haliburton, Inc. (Vice President Cheney, CEO Emeritus) has been give a contract to teach English as a Primary language to the indigenous population of Quebec.
